

Figure 1. A new fossil locality discovered within a fluvial channel deposit in the Mission Valley Formation during the paleontological survey on MCAS Miramar. Upper: View of the outcrop containing the new locality, with the red box indicating the approximate extent of the picture below. Lower: Close up view of one of the bone fragments weathering out of the outcrop, indicated by the red arrow.