We have lived in Leona Valley for going on twelve years. We enjoy the peace, quiet and beauty of our rural setting. But, it also comes at a price. We all work hard to keep up our land, our properties, our homes, and teach our children to do the same. We work hard ~~and~~ financially to cover the costs of water, propane and extra gas to get to town and drive our children where they need to go at various ages and stages of development. Many, many people have animals that they care for, also! We are extremely resistant to the idea of having power lines, etc. Destroying not only the look of Leona Valley, but possibly posing a health threat. NB to mention decreasing home values!
